The purpose of the governing CC&R's, found at <http://www.pedregal-hoa.net/documents.html>, is to maintain and enhance the value of Pedregal as a whole. The Architectural Review Committee wants projects to enhance the enjoyment of your property while being consistent with the governing documents, the value of Pedregal as a whole, and your neighbors' enjoyment of their property both during and after any project. Projects should be consistent with the "hacienda" style that defines Pedregal. The Architectural Review Committee would prefer to work cooperatively to find an acceptable solution for everyone. To this end, we suggest preliminary designs be reviewed before committing to a single design or major expense. The initial submittal should include a drawing adequate to review the scope and nature of the project. Once the project has preliminary approval, detailed architectural drawings may be required for significant additions or modifications.
